Hungary: The Land and Culture

Dr. László Borhi is a Senior Research Fellow of the Institute of History, Hungarian Academy of Sciences. His research interests include cold war history, communism in Hungary, and history of international relations in the 20th century. He is a four-time holder of the György Ránki Hungarian Chair at Indiana University Bloomington and spent fall semester 1996 as a Fulbright Visiting Professor in the Department of History at Dartmouth College. Dr. Borhi has been a guest lecturer and professor in a number of universities in Hungary and the US and currently is a Fulbright Visiting Professor at Indiana University Bloomington in the Department of Central Eurasian Studies.

Dr. Borhi earned a master's degree in history and political science from Indiana University Bloomington and holds from Eötvös Loránd University in Budapest, Hungary, a doctoral degree. In 2012, Dr. Borhi received the highest attainable degree in Hungary, the Doctor of Hungarian Academy of Sciences. In 2006, he was awarded Hungary's first privately established prize for scholars, the Bezerédj Zolán Prize, as well as the Hungarian Republic Gold Cross of Merit. Dr. Borhi's research appears in numerous books and scholarly articles.

This semester, the UWA Fulbright Lecture Series will bring to campus visiting scholars from two additional countries, Vietnam and Kosovo. Presentation dates and times will be announced on UWA's homepage: www.uwa.edu.
