

László BORHI Dr.HISTORIAN*PUBLIC LECTURE

THE UNITED STATES, HUNGARY AND CENTRAL EUROPE, 1942 AND 1990

10TH NOV12:00-13:20*BCE SÓHÁZ*(1093 Budapest, Fővám tér 8.)LECTURE ROOM 2.(Basement)*ASSOCIATE PROFESSORCENTRAL EURASIAN STUDIES
SCHOOL OF GLOBAL AND INTERNATIONAL
STUDIES - INDIANA UNIVERSITYSCIENTIFIC COUNSELLORINSTITUTE OF HISTORY
CENTER FOR HUMANITIES
HUNGARIAN ACADEMY OF SCIENCE

Drawing on historical evidence analyzed in his book Dealing with Dictators, the relationship between the United States and Hungary during the Second World War and the Cold War, Laszlo Borhi will discuss some relevant issues of international relations. First, the power or powerlessness of weak states in international politics; second the experience of external regime transformation. Finally, through the lessons of the regime change of 1989/1990, Borhi will discuss whether domestic transformation can generate systemic change in international politics. Latest book: Dealing with Dictators, Indiana University Press, 2016

Discussant: Zoltán GÁLIK, associate professor, BCE, Institute of International Studies

Moderator: János B. KOCSIS, associate professor, BME / BCE